An invitation to play your part...

Funding the future in performing arts

There are many talented young people in Scotland who are simply not in a financial position to realise their dream of studying the performing arts.

The MGA Foundation has been established to provide financial support to people residing in Scotland towards the costs of one-off, part-time or full-time training in singing, acting and musical theatre at reputable schools throughout the UK.

We are building a community of supporters who will help turn the dreams of young people in Scotland into a reality. Will you join us in this adventure?

“The funding was invaluable to me because it made the difference between being able to attend college and not. Since completing my course, I have been working professionally around the world for companies including Celebrity Cruises – none of this would have been possible without my training, and, of course, funding.”

GEORGIA

There are many ways to get involved:

- A simple one-off donation or regular monthly gift will go towards our scholarship scheme. Just complete the attached form or visit our website themgafoundation.org
- Get in touch to discuss how to become a bronze, silver, gold or platinum supporter and receive an acknowledgement on our website wall of fame – email info@themgafoundation.org
- Or are you able to help in a more significant way by sponsoring a scholarship? For a three-year commitment, depending on your level of giving, we can confer a scholarship in your name and link you in with the progress of your selected student. Contact us for more information: info@themgafoundation.org

“The funding allowed me to train for three years and learn the trade that I love. I am now working my fourth professional job since graduating. Had I not received funding, I wouldn’t be where I am today and may not have trained at all – because it was simply too expensive.”
